
What can I do with www.sdsea.org?

- Login to your account. If you haven't logged in before, or if you've changed your password and forgotten it, click "Forgot password" below the login boxes.

Edit your profile

- Below your name on the bottom left of the screen is a link to "View Profile". Click this. Your profile will come on the screen and you can see what information the group has for you.
- Click on the button labeled "Edit Profile". Here you can change or add any of the information listed.
- Click on the "Access by others" link at the top of your profile. Here you can specify what of your information can be seen by whom. You can have your email address, for example, visible to anybody, only to members, or to nobody. The same is true for any other information.
- Be sure to click "Save" at the bottom of the screen when you are finished editing.

Contribute to a forum

- On the main menu, click "Forums". You'll see a list of our three discussion forums: Elementary Science, Middle School Science, and Secondary Science. Click on the name of any one of these to read that forum.
- Within the forum, you can create a new discussion topic (click "Create Topic") or comment on a previous topic (click on the topic title, then click "New Comment"). Add your wisdom or question in the window that appears.
- If you wish to have updates to this discussion topic emailed to you, you can click "Subscribe to topic". That way new posts will be sent to your email address and you don't need to keep returning to this page to see if anyone has replied or answered your question.
- (FYI: The forum discussions can be read by the general public, but only members can contribute new comments or new topics.)

Suggest a link

- On the main menu, click "Links". This is a page of links to websites that have useful information for science teachers. (This page is visible to the general public, not just members.)
- Please look at the links that are already there, think of one or two that we have missed so far, and email new suggestions for links to me. (Click the link on the right side of the page to email directly to me.)

Contribute a lesson

- On the main menu, click on "Member-only", then click on "Lesson Plans". Think about a favorite activity or lab or lesson that you use, that might be useful to other members. Click the link at the top of the page to send me an email with information about the lesson and a page or two in PDF or Word format. (Only members can access this page, not the general public.)

Send me suggestions for improvement

- If you have suggestions for improving any part of the site (new discussion forums, new/rearranged pages, different or additional topics for member profiles, etc.), please let me know at sdsea@iguanasuite.net.
